SUMMARY

I am a driven and tech-savvy third-year Computer Science student aspiring to become a software developer. My academic background has provided me with experience in creating and developing large projects, games using OOP, and web apps with HTML, CSS, JavaScript, Express, and Sequelize, along with practice in C++, C, Python, and other technologies. Currently, I am self-learning React and taking a six-month break from my studies, which allows me to focus entirely on gaining practical experience and honing my skills. I am eager to join a team to contribute effectively while further developing my expertise.
